

Introduction to Safe Sport

Sport has the power to positively change lives and build communities - but it can only do this when the experience places physical, social, and emotional wellbeing at the very core.

Safety is of utmost importance to Volleyball BC and we strive to ensure that all players receive a safe and positive volleyball experience in British Columbia. Abuse, maltreatment, and unsafe practices have no place in our volleyball community.

Our dedication to safety is embedded in our 2021-2024 Strategic Plan where our mission is to lead enjoyable and safe volleyball experiences. The importance of safety is reflected throughout our Vision, Mission, Goals, Values, and Key Initiatives.

What is Safe Sport?

"Safe Sport" is a term that used a lot in sport and in the media but what does it actually mean?

The Coaching Association of Canada defines Safe Sport as "Our collective responsibility to create, foster and preserve sport environments that ensure positive, healthy and fulfilling experiences for all individuals. A safe sport environment is one in which all sport stakeholders recognize and report acts of maltreatment and prioritize the welfare, safety and rights of every person at all times." (2020).

In our Safe Sport Action Plan, we address issues and actions to promote safe sport in volleyball across 4 different aspects:

- 1. Concussion
- 2. Physical Injury
- 3. Abuse & Maltreatment
- 4. Mental Health

From May to December 2021, we embarked on a series of steps to assess best practice, identify issues and prioritise actions for change. These included:

- Creating a Safe Sport Working Group
- Surveying our membership about their experiences
- Conducting focus groups with Team BC athletes
- Reviewing best practice and assessing priorities in our sport

This Safe Sport Action Plan is a culmination of all of these steps and was adopted by the VBC Board in March 2022.

What did you tell us about safety?

The good news is that you generally feel (very) safe participating in volleyball

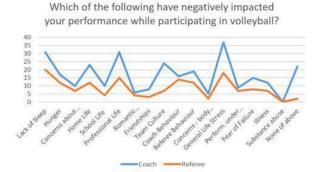

Across all respondent groups, there was positive agreement to the statement "I feel safe participating in volleyball" with a ranking of 4 or 5. Referees answered positively with 89% agreeing/strongly agreeing with the statement (ranking 4 or 5).

There is a strong relationship between well-being and safety that we need to protect in order to preserve what our members enjoy about playing volleyball.

You listed the top 3 reasons that you participate in volleyball as:

- 1. Having fun
- 2. Social connection
- 3. Achieving my goals for personal development

However, it is clear from our research that stressors for physical and mental well-being often impact your performance and well-being when you are participating in volleyball.

The top factors affecting referees' performances in volleyball were general life stress, lack of sleep and professional life. Coach behaviour was another factor that negatively impacts you. In addition, over 75% of respondents said that they had experienced at least one of the well-being "stressors" that we listed in the survey. The top factors listed by Referees were mental exhaustion, physical fatigue, irritability, and increased anxiety. A question for us to ask is whether we can do anything to address these stressors and to ensure that the experience of playing volleyball is not contributing.

Physical injury was generally not perceived as a risk by referees.

Only 25% Referees in the survey have experienced an injury during participation in volleyball.

The most common injuries listed were to the shoulder/arm or back.

Encouragingly Referees felt that they had the most amount of resources, support and knowledge around physical injury, closely followed by concussion / brain injury.

Concussion was also a concern, particularly among male participants.

Only 4-6% of respondents said they had received a concussion or head injury.

26% of referees identified physical injury and concussion/ brain injury as the biggest risk in our sport. This compared with the top response - 33% said verbal abuse, bullying or harassment was the biggest risk.

Alarmingly, many of you felt that 5 behaviours linked to Abuse and Maltreatment were an issue in volleyball.

76% said
psychologically or emotionally
harming behaviour
is an issue

Overall 49% said negative focus on body weight or image is a problem 54% of Referees said bullying is an issue & 51% said discriminatory remarks or behaviour are an issue

Overall 32% said behaviour that is physically harming is a problem

If you personally experienced one of the behaviours listed above, who was responsible?

Referees overwhelmingly indicated that they are most likely to have experienced one of these behaviours from a parent, a coach/assistant coach or a player.

Mental health and well-being is a rising area of attention that you identified.

mental exhaustion,
physical fatigue,
irritability, and increased anxiety were top factors identified by Referees as affecting their participation.

"Coaches, in particular, should be taking a long, serious look at their behaviour. Most coaches are fine, but there do exist a far too high number of abusive and selfish ("I only accept calls that are good for my team or bad for my opponent") coaches."

"Define to all coaches, players, referees, parents what is bullying and harassment and what is not bullying and harassment with respect to all volleyball functions" Referees ranked mental health as one of the areas where they had the least amount of resources, support and knowledge required to create a safe environment. The complexity of mental health considerations and concerns was illustrated in the responses that you gave us:

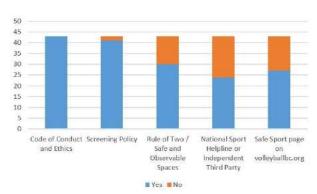

"More needs to be done with responding and managing active safety issues related to abuse and bullying towards officials. A notable amount of officials leave refereeing due to the lack of support and in-game mentorship. Refereeing is high stress job to which if respected, supported, and resourced well, can be a sustainable career or past-time for all ages and addressing perceived safety concerns".

"Volleyball should be a welcoming sport for all people, with skills or not...I've heard from newcomers that they have a hard time getting involve unless they already establish connections. I think most important is to establish rules for sportsmanship. To hear that people have been bullied off courts and choose to do the same to others because it's an unspoken rule is wrong."

There are gaps in support and inconsistent awareness of safety resources.

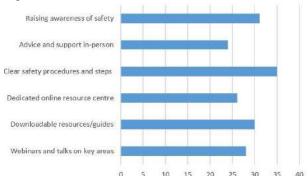

Even though Volleyball BC has a number of resources and mechanisms in place to protect and promote player safety, it is clear that there is low awareness and that we are not currently meeting our members need for support:

Are you aware that Volleyball BC has...?

Most of you are aware that we have a Code of Conduct and Ethics and a Screening Policy for positions of authority. Less of you were aware that there is a Rule of Two, or a National Sport Helpline or Independent Third Party for reporting safe sport incidences. Our job moving forward is to do a better job of promoting these.

How can VBC help and support you in creating a safe environment?

For Referees, Volleyball BC could best support by creating clear safety procedures and steps followed by raising awareness of safety. This was also reflected in many of the comments from referees that talked about the need for education and awareness around respect for referees.

Our Framework for Action

From what we heard from you, there is clearly room for improvement in safety and well-being in volleyball in BC. Improving safety in volleyball requires everyone – players, coaches, referees, clubs – to be committed and accountable. Volleyball BC can play an important role because of our unique province-wide position. We have developed a framework for action below that focuses on three key Areas of Action that Volleyball BC can lead:

STRATEGIC IMPERATIVE

FRAMEWORK FOR ACTION

OUTCOMES

IMPACTS

GOAL

To foster a safe environment.

KEY INITIATIVE

- $\sqrt{\phantom{a}}$  Deliver a youth-focused campaign on mental health and well-being in volleyball.

What happens now?

The Safe Sport Action Plan outlines some ambitious initiatives that will be rolled out from 2022-2024. How will we measure the impact of this work and know whether we have been successful in achieving the changes we want to see? Safety and well-being are complex and difficult to measure. Here are our commitments to monitoring and evaluation:

- We have identified Key Performance Indicators that we will monitor annually to track our progress.
- > We are committed to sharing and listening to your feedback.
- > The Safe Sport Working Group will continue to provide leadership and oversight of the Plan.
- > The Volleyball BC Board will receive regular staff reports to ensure that we are on track.
- We will share our progress annually with you.

Safety and well-being in volleyball is a journey and not a destination. We will continually work to ensure that all of you have an experience that is positive for your physical, emotional, and mental well-being. This Action Plan marks the start of a new phase of our journey!
